

Wednesday, January 10, 2007 | By Bruce Finley | Rocky Mountain News

Denver nonprofit receives Gates grant

A Denver-based nonprofit that provides aid to the rural poor in Africa and Asia has been awarded a $13.4 million grant from the Bill & Melinda Gates Foundation.

International Development Enterprises will use the money to develop and promote low-cost irrigation methods for subsistence farmers and to help create markets for the agricultural products they produce.

The grant will be used in Ethiopia and Zambia in Africa, and Nepal and Myanmar in Asia, over four years.

